LIFE

A little joy, a little sorrow,
Some laughter and some tears,
A longing for the great Tomorrow,
And memories of the vanished years.

A little work, a little play—
A share to every man;
A little dreaming by the ways,
And life shall end as life began.

—Harry M. Dean.

Local Mention.

It was a fine, white Christmas.
Good morning! Can you write it?

As we have said before, do your Christmas shopping quickly.

Many visitors have helped our people enjoy the holiday festivities.

Prof. McHenry Rhoades, of Lexington, was here on business Monday.

Mr. Hugh Bohannon, of Paducah, was here a few days with his parents and friends.

School opening again this morning, after a ten-day vacation.

There are more than the usual number of business changes for the new year.

Marriages over the county were well up to the usual holiday standard.

Miss Hazel Benson, of Madisonville, was here several days during Christmas with Miss Loreen Martin.

When you get "Quail" meal you get the best that is to be had.

Miss Corinne Morehead, of Morgantown, is visiting Mrs. Robert Workliffe.

Mr. Joe Gest, of Columbia, Ky., was here this week, a guest of Mr. Benj. Martin.

Monday was county court day, drawing a goodly crowd to town. Some stock was shown but there was little dealing.

It will pay you to look at the wallpaper bargains now on at Roark's.

The boy who got a sled among his Christmas gifts was too busy with it for a few days to pay much attention to anything else.

Mr. Thos. Frazier, who is now located at Milan, Tenn., is spending a short vacation at home.

Mr. W. O. Belcher and family have moved to Bowling Green, where they will reside until June.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. North, of New Albany, Ind., have been spending the holidays here with the family of Mr. Dave Christian.

John Green Barkley, Sr.

In his 85th year, Mr. J. G. Barkley, Sr., fell asleep without pain or struggle, almost, at his home west of town at 6 o'clock on the evening of December 21. For many years he had suffered from organic heart trouble, but was as well as usual, and had been to the depot, where he met his wife, who returned on the late afternoon train from a visit of two weeks in Louisville. The family assembled around the supper table, but before the meal was finished Mr. Barkley arose from the table and left the room. He had shown no indication of illness, and said nothing, but when he reached an adjoining room called, and Mr. John Barkley was at once by his side, and caught his father as he sank, death being instantaneous.

Deceased was born near Danville, where he spent his young manhood, moving to Daviess county, but for more than thirty years had lived here, and soon became a force in the upbuilding of Muhlenberg. He was a good farmer, an admirer of high grade stock and cattle, and talked and wrote much for the betterment of the land owner. He was a quiet, genial man, but strong in conviction and fearless in expression. To him, probably more than any one man, is due the credit for the great growth in Sunday-schools of the county. He spent many years in this work, and was for a considerable time engaged in the State work, visiting every county in the Commonwealth. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and was a consistent, loyal official for the greatest part of his life since in this county.

Surviving him are his widow, Messrs. James and John Barkley, of this place, Mr. Harry Barkley, of Froop, Texas, Miss Sallie Barkley, of Louisville, Mrs. H. C. Clark, of Washington, D. C., Miss Sue Barkley, of this city, and Miss Jessamine Barkley, of Nashville.

Funeral services were conducted by Dr. Henderson at the Presbyterian church at 2 o'clock on the 23rd ult., and the interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

The home of Uncle Ves Robinson, a respected colored man, was destroyed by fire Friday night. It was out of reach of the fire-fighting apparatus; most of the contents were saved.

Breizendine-Willis Wedding.

One of the most pleasing events of the season, and one that surprised most folks, was the marriage of Miss Sallie Breizendine and Mr. Doyle Willis, which occurred at 8:30 o'clock Monday night at the home of Mrs. Belle Breizendine, mother of the bride, the ceremony being performed by Dr. W. R. Henderson, and only a few friends in attendance. She is an active, popular girl, happy in the wide circle of friends, and the groom is one of the leading lawyers, ranking high in his profession, and personally popular with all our people, his geniality and personality being appreciated by everyone. They are at home in the W. O. Hecher residence, and are receiving congratulations and best wishes of all.

Death of Mrs. Sophronia Allen.

Mrs. Sophronia Allen, in her 85th year, died at the home of her son, Mr. Jep Allen, at 8 o'clock on the evening of December 19, from the effect of a fall which she sustained several days before, in which her hip was broken. On account of extreme age there had been no hope that she could recover. Mrs. Allen was a native of this county, and a pioneer character and active force in its development. She was a devout Christian, a member of the Baptist church, and her long life was crowded with acts of mercy and services of love. Revs. Woodson and Tandy conducted a funeral service at Friendship, the building being filled with relatives and friends, and interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Residence Burns Thursday.

A residence on College street owned by Mr. John Wells and occupied by Mr. John Kennedy and family was discovered on fire about 1 o'clock last Thursday afternoon, and was so far gone that the fire department could not save the building. The contents of the building were practically all removed. Both the building and contents were insured. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Here's to the new year! May the "13" part of it have no bad luck significance to you,

Morgan-Parker Wedding.

Miss Hazel Elizabeth Morgan, daughter of Mr. G. C. Morgan, of this city, and Mr. H. R. Parker, of Drakesboro, where married at the home of Rev. R. C. Love, who performed the ceremony, at 2:30 o'clock December 21, in the presence of a few relatives and friends. They left at once for Dawson Springs, on a visit to the home folks of the groom and are now at Drakesboro, where Mr. Parker is connected with the Telephone Co. The bride carries with her the best wishes of our people, as she is a talented, charming young woman. The groom has made a host of friends since he has resided in this county, and holds the esteem and confidence of his associates.

Texas Cowboy Co. at opera house next Thursday night.

The streets were safe avenues of travel here during Christmas, as the town was not turned over to the hoodlum element that has heretofore been in charge of the streets during Christmas, making it dangerous for anyone to be out.

Attend the opening of the opera house next Thursday night.

Card of Thanks.

We thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and helping hand during the affliction and death of our mother. May God's blessing be with them.

J. W. AND WILIE ALLEN.

Mr. John Embler, a former resident of this county, died December 22 at Eureka Springs, Ark., where he had been under treatment and using the water as a relief from Bright's disease. His body was carried back to his home in Auburn, Ill., for burial. Deceased has many friends and relatives in this and adjoining counties, and was a man of strong character who made friends wherever he went.

Opera House Opened Next Thursday By Texas Cowboy Co.

The LaMeade Opera House, newly decorated, steps widened to comply with the building code under the new manager, J. W. Bailey & Jamison, will be opened next Thursday night by the Texas Cowboy Co., a strong attraction, carrying its own band and a competent company of actors and actresses. This show should pack the house, as it comes well recommended.

A Calm View of Germs.

We all know that we live in the midst of a countless array of invisible organisms, and that to them we owe many of our most painful and dangerous diseases. With regard to them we stand, as it were, between Scylla and Charybdis,—the Scylla of ignorance or indifference, and the Charybdis of worry and fear,—and it is hard to say which is the worse. The germs are here, and therefore we ought to inform ourselves about them, and take proper precautions against them: but it is wrong to let ourselves be thrown into a panic. Common sense should remind us that in spite of the omnipresence of germs, infection of any sort is rare. It is not necessary to become a monomaniac upon learning that money is generally "filthy lucre" in another than the Scriptural sense. We like to handle all we can get of it, and generally do so with impunity. At the same time we know the germs are there, and we ought to remember that the human mouth was never intended as a receptacle for coin.

It is disagreeable to reflect that hands are usually dirty things, but it is true. The most scrupulous person cannot keep a sterilized hand, except by living in a rubber glove, and then the glove would be dirty! The human hand is meant to do things with; you cannot do anything without touching things, and that means contact with germs. But there is little danger if we keep our hands as clean as we can and observe a few simple precautions.

Most important of all, we can learn to keep our hands away from our faces. That is a rule that parents and teachers should teach the young in the habit-forming period of life. The hands should not even be used to wash the face with unless they have been thoroughly washed themselves, and the eyes should never be touched by them.

Finally, let other people's towels and brushes alone. That is a measure of protection you owe not only to yourself but to them.
